[Reasons for Non-compliance with the Principles of the Corporate Governance Code]

Supplementary Principle 4.10.1 Involvement and advice of independent directors in examination of important matters such as nominations and remunerations

Remuneration for individual directors has been determined by consultations among the representative directors based on the authorization by the Board of Directors. As for director candidates, a draft is prepared and proposed to the Board of Directors through consultations among the representative directors.

The Company will continue to consider establishing a desirable decision-making process.

[Disclosure Based on the Principles of the Corporate Governance Code]

Principle 1.4 Cross-Shareholdings

Based on the management strategies and plans, the Company believes that it is necessary to strengthen business relationships with other companies in order to expand business and to achieve sustainable growth.

From this perspective, in a comprehensive manner, the Company holds shares that are not purposed for net investments and discloses them in the securities report together with the purpose of the cross-shareholdings. In addition, the Company periodically reviews and examines cross-shareholdings to determine whether they are commensurate with dividend yields and capital costs, while taking into consideration a reduction in the holdings.

As for voting, the Company does not exercise votes based on uniform criteria but based on the perspective of whether or not such votes lead to the sustainable growth of the Company and to improvements in corporate value over the mid- to long- term.

Principle 1.7 Related Party Transactions

As for transactions with directors, the Company is required to deliberate and resolve the details at the Board of Directors. The conditions and other matters with regard to transactions are to be disclosed in the notice to the general meeting of shareholders or in the financial report.

Transactions with major shareholders are determined under the same manner as general transaction conditions and take market prices, total costs, and other factors into account.

Principle 2.6 Roles of Corporate Pension Funds at Asset Owners

The Company operates the corporate pension fund through KOITO MANUFACTURING Corporate Pension Fund. The Corporate Pension Fund has a Diet Members' Council, which meets twice a year, in principle. Members of the Diet consist of representatives of the Company and an executive officer of the labor union. They resolve the budget, business plan, business report, and financial report for each fiscal year.

Asset management is entrusted to financial institutions with sufficient investment performance.

Regarding the fact that the operation of corporate pension funds not only affects employees' stable asset formation but also their financial condition, and that there should be appropriate management of possible conflicts of interest between the beneficiaries of the corporate pension and the Company, management committees composed of representatives of the Company and the management companies meet four times a year to monitor the investment status.

Principle 3.1 Full Disclosure

1. Corporate principles, management strategies, and plans

The corporate principles of the Company consist of the following statements: "We will contribute to social development through lighting," "We will step forward to realize our employees' dreams," and "We will support a sustainable society as one of its members".

To realize these principles, the Company conducts business activities through its group companies, based on the following four strategies and plans:

1. To address the automobile industry's expansion of globally optimal production systems, the KOITO Group will work to enhance its system to respond to the five major regions of the world (Japan, North America, Europe, China, and Asia). To this end, the Group will further reinforce product development, manufacturing, and the sales functions of its overseas bases, among other measures.

2. Basic philosophy and policy on corporate governance

To realize corporate principles, management strategies, and plans, the Company recognizes the importance of ethical standards and sound management in order to retain the trust of all stakeholders. Based on this approach, the Company is making efforts to enhance corporate governance and strengthen compliance.

As for the corporate governance structure, the Board of Directors manages decision-making and exercises supervision in accordance with Company regulations, directors and executive officers execute the business of the Company, and Audit and Supervisory Board Members audit the execution. In addition to the quantitative factors of the performance of the company and the level of dividends paid to shareholders, remuneration at other companies, and remuneration of employees, the remuneration of directors is determined by comprehensively taking management capabilities, achievements, and their contributions into account. Basic remuneration is determined from the size and position of each director and based on the degree of contribution and performance. Performance-linked remuneration refers to variable remuneration regarding achievements for the previous fiscal year.

The remuneration of each director has been determined by consultations among the representative directors based on the authorization of the Board of Directors.

As to outside directors, only basic remuneration is paid, not performance-linked remuneration.

Furthermore, at the 115th Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders held on June 26, 2015, stock compensation-type stock options (stock subscription rights granted) were introduced for directors and corporate officers, excluding outside directors. The Company expects stock options to help corporate managers recognize the extremely close relationship and correlation between corporate performance and stock value. Moreover, the Company expects shareholders and corporate managers to share the benefits and risks caused by stock price fluctuations, and aim to raise corporate managers' willingness to contribute to the improvement of business performance and corporate value over the mid- to long- term.

In addition, in order to further share the benefits and risks of stock price fluctuations with shareholders, and to raise the motivation to contribute to an increase in stock prices and corporate value, the Company introduced allotting restricted shares at the 117th Ordinary General Meeting of Shareholders held on June 29, 2017.
